Oberlin has from the first been very fully attended, having at the present time about 1,100 students, about two fifths being ladies. It has also been a stronghold of freedom from the first. There stands in its public square a monument bearing the wise are at present located on this island, having thoughts the former successful labors of the three missionary Snow, who has gone to his rest. A singular feature of this island is the excess of our friend, the effect of which has decreased and happy.

Taking Nawaa and wife on board, they left Mille on the 27th and arrived at Jalut, 129 miles to the west, the next day. Remaining there till December 1st, they sailed for Eben again, on their return westward. Arriving at Ebon on the 20, the vessel laid off and on during that night and the whole of the next day, while Dr. Pease went on shore and gathered up his scholars to take lack to his training school at Kussie. Leaving Ebon, they next visited Namarik (Baring's Island), some sixty miles northwestward, where Matthew, a Marshall Islander, was ordained pastor, and thence sailed for Kussie, arriving there December 8th. The work in the Marshall Islands was now finished, and the Sies remained at Kussie until the 15th, preparing for her work still farther westward.
